COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Today's educators have been trained to teach opposition and defiant students by giving them rewards as they see them finally do the desired behavior. Studies show this is not working in most schools, and behaviors are escalating. The author of Conscious Discipline will give you the knowledge needed to understand why. The answers lie within our brains, which have three different states: The Survival State, Emotional State, and the Executive State. Educators can give students what they need by showing empathy and building a sense of community within the classroom. This course aims to provide educators with the tools they need to bring students closer to their full potential and remove the barriers that many of us face. Through reading several resources online and watching videos by Dr. Becky Bailey, you can implement this new approach into your classroom and enjoy the transformation of your students and self.

This course is appropriate for teachers k-12.

Assignment #1: Introduce Yourself

Introduce yourself and write about your current position. Include what challenges you're currently facing with your students and what your current discipline strategies are. (1-2 pages)

Assignment #2: Teaching About the Brain

Watch the YouTube video about how to use your hand to teach your students about the brain.

https://www.youtube.com/embed/O81uhCobl_A

Teaching in the classroom can be very stressful when you have a student whose amygdala has been hijacked. Knowing how to calm them down is always trying. If students understand their brains, they could know what is happening to them.

In 400-500 words, describe how you could teach about the brain using your hand. Include how the amygdala can hijack a student's brain, causing disruptive behaviors.

Assignment #3: Creating Connections

Read chapter 2 in Conscious Discipline 7 Powers & Skills.

As we get to know our students and their behaviors, some educators fail to understand what is going on internally with a child. Today's educators need to know what is happening to their students in all aspects of their life to understand their behaviors. If a student is struggling at home or hungry, they will struggle to learn.

In 400-500 words, describe what you can do as an educator to help students whose brains may be in survival or emotional state.

- Why is it so important not to focus on their behavior?
- How can we create connections, so all of our students feel welcome?

Assignment #4: Disciplinary Strategies Vs Conscious actions

Read the articles:

- Why Conscious Discipline Consequences Work and Punishments Don't.
<https://consciousdiscipline.com/why-conscious-discipline-consequences-work/>
- I Love You Rituals:
<https://consciousdiscipline.com/free-resources/shubert/shuberts-classroom/i-love-you-rituals/>

<https://www.youtube.com/embed/UWWv0azMgMA>

From the articles you just read, take into consideration the following:

- The difference between disciplinary strategies versus conscious disciplinary actions.
- The four methods to maintain and gain composure under challenging situations.
- The role empathy plays in students' sense of well-being.
- The (D.N.A.) Describe Body, Notice Feelings, and Acknowledge Intent or Desire. (D.N.A.)

Assignment #5: Pushing Buttons

Keeping your composure in the classroom can be very difficult when you have a disruptive student. As you think about your classroom, do you struggle to remain calm at times?

- Read "The Skill of Composure."
<https://consciousdiscipline.com/a-heart-of-compassion/>
- Read Chapter 4 - Composure. This chapter goes through an activity on removing the buttons children push.

In 400-500 words, describe how you remain calm in your classroom and describe a time when you couldn't keep your composure.

- Would using the skills you read about have been beneficial at that moment?
- Do you currently use any of the composure strategies mentioned in the article?
- Discuss the five steps in delivering the two positive choices method.
- Why is it important to give students choices?

Assignment #6: 3 Different Brain States

As educators, we need our students to set goals and achieve success; however, getting there can be complicated. Today's children have many barriers that stop them from reaching their full potential. Dr. Bailey describes the three different states of the brain.

Watch the video "Wiring the Brain for Success.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cjVJV7G8x3s>

<https://www.youtube.com/embed/cjVJV7G8x3s>

In 400 - 500 words, describe each state.

- What state are we in when we are upset?
- What state are we in when we are not nurtured?
- ?How do we get to the state we need to be in to learn?

Assignment #7: Logical Consequences

Traditional consequences have been proven not to work, as it creates fear in children. Dr. Bailey teaches what is known as "Logical Consequences."

- Watch Dr. Bailey and dive into what she calls Logical Consequences.
<https://www.youtube.com/embed/KukQfLvGck8>

In approximately 500 words, write about what Logical Consequences are and why they work. Include how you can implement this strategy in your classroom.

Chapter 4 discusses how giving children choices when being redirected can help them feel like they're still in control of the situation.

In approximately 300-400 words, describe the five steps in delivering the two positive choice models Dr. Bailey came up with.

Assignment #8: From Fear to Love

Years ago, discipline created fear in children to get them to behave and do their school work. Research shows fear is not the way to get what educators need from their students, as this puts them in a survival state.

- Watch Dr. Bailey's advice on PBS-shifting from Fear to Love.
https://www.youtube.com/embed/k_qb6RvjhSw

In approximately 500 words, explain why her theory of this shift from fear to love creates a classroom where students want to do their work and behave for themselves and the teacher.

Assignment #9: Moments of Opportunity

Dr. Bailey believes if educators could teach her 7 skills of discipline, it would solve everyday behavior issues within the classroom. She also claims we can turn these disciplinary moments into an opportunity to teach.

In 400-500 words, describe two of the 7 skills.

- Describe each skill.
- Do you use this skill currently in your classroom?
- How can you implement these skills into your classroom?
